THE UNITED STATES MARSHALS SERVICE

PUT A STAR IN YOUR FUTURE

Be a Deputy U.S. Marshal

The U.S. Marshals Service (USMS) is the nation's oldest and most versatile Federal law enforcement agency. Federal Marshals have served the country since 1789.

- Protecting Federal judicial officials - which includes judges, attorneys and jurors - is a high priority for the Marshals Service.
- The Marshals Service is the Federal government's primary agency for conducting fugitive investigations.
- Hundreds of special missions are carried out each day by the U.S. Marshals Service's Special Operations Group.
- The Marshals Service ensures the safety of witnesses who risk their lives testifying for the government in cases involving organized crime and other significant criminal activity.
- Each year the Marshals Service transports more than 390,000 prisoners and aliens via coordinated air and ground systems.
- The Marshals Service is responsible for managing and disposing of seized and forfeited properties acquired by criminals through illegal activities.

If you are a U.S. citizen, meet the minimum age of 21 and maximum age of 36, with three years of responsible experience, or a bachelors degree, or an equivalent combination of education and experience; in excellent medical and physical condition; willing to submit to a background investigation, and meet other requirements, you may be eligible to become a Deputy U.S. Marshal.
